Grand Forks, N.D. native is a videographer with the University of North Dakota’s award-winning television show, Studio One
Jaye Millspaugh brings visual communication skills to Studio One. The show plays on Channel 3 in Grand Forks.

GRAND FORKS, N.D.—Jaye Millspaugh is in her second semester as an intern with Studio One, an award-winning television show produced at the University of North Dakota. Last semester she worked as a camera operator. Currently, Millspaugh is a member of the programming team and works as a videographer and production assistant. “I love that I’m able to learn new skills that will make me a more desirable candidate for any jobs I’ll apply for in the future,” she explains.

Millspaugh is a senior at UND studying communication and visual art. She is also involved with Toastmasters and works for the Dakota Student as a news and feature reporter and opinion columnist.

Millspaugh graduated from Grand Forks Central High School in 2009 and is the daughter of Cheryl Anderson and Mike Millspaugh. After graduating from UND, she plans to move to a large city and work for a magazine, television station or news website. “I want to work, preferably in the area of fashion or health and wellness,” Millspaugh says. “Studio One has taught me how to be more professional and improve my time management [skills].”

Studio One is an award-winning news and information program produced at the University of North Dakota Television Center. The program airs live on Channel 3 on Thursdays at 5 p.m. Re-broadcasts can be seen at 7 a.m., noon, 7 p.m. and 11 p.m. daily and on Saturdays at 10 a.m. Prairie Public Television airs Studio One on Saturday at 6 a.m. The program can also be seen by viewers in Bismarck-Mandan, Dickinson, Fargo, Jamestown, Minot, and Ray, N.D.; Minneapolis and St. Paul, Minn.; Denver and Colorado Springs, Colo.; Winnipeg and Brandon, Manitoba and online at www.studio1.und.edu.
